Stewardship Corner... – As we grow in our lives of stewardship, we can experience joy, either as a result of our interaction with others, or as a result of our own inner peace. As knowledge of the faith grows our joy can grow as we become more comfortable with our lives as Christians. As our communal participation grows we experience the joy of appreciating others and being appreciated. As our personal experience of stewardship changes we become joyful as we see the affect we have on others, or we recall how others have affected us. As we grow spiritually, we become more joyful as we grow closer to God. Finally, joy can be an indicator of the degree in which stewardship has become a part of our lives.
